Casino search is stepped up

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Efforts to bring gambling casinos to Romulus are in full swing today as the city announced it has hired a consulting firm to coordinate such efforts to help create a gambling industry here that could add $20 to $25 million a year to city coffers.

Edward Markle, vice president of Gaming Consultants International Inc. of New Orleans, La. and Annapolis, Md., appeared in the temporary City Council chambers Monday night to praise Mayor Beverly McAnally's vision in attempting to bring in what he described as "a world class facility."

Both Markle and McAnally said the sought after gambling facility would also include entertainment and recreation areas and possibly a theme park.

Markle said the law firm of which he is a member has existed for 18 years and also has or is working with city officials in Gary, Ind., Boston, Houston, Biloxi, Miss. and Cancun, Mexico.

The Sept. 26 vote to have Markle prepare a feasibility study for the casino efforts came only days after McAnally revealed that she had met in Southfield earlier this summer with former Chrysler Corp. chairman Lee Iacocca and discussed possible casino operations in Romulus.

McAnally admitted that no deal has been struck with the Iacocca forces at this time. But she also said the city has talked with other top casino industry leaders.

"We have tried repeatedly for years now to get the taxpayers to approve millages to upgrade streets, sewers, etc. They have told us over and over they wouldn't pay for such changes, so we have to seek other revenue opportunities," McAnally said.

Markle said the hoped for casino could bring in revenues more than double the city's current budget.

Last Friday McAnally admitted the earlier talks with Iacocca and officials of Full House Resorts Inc.

Full House Resorts Inc. is a development company lead by Iacocca and the group already has reportedly signed agreements with four Michigan Indian tribes for a casino development within 30 miles of Detroit.

Any such casino operation would need the approval of Gov. John Engler and the federal Interior Department.

In a recent advisory vote, Detroiters approved inner city and river boat gambling operations, after rejecting the same four times before.

The governor has blocked such plans for now by sending the plan to a committee for fur-

Father writes judge Sentence my son's killer as an adult tomorrow

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Bruce Jones, father of slain former Romulus High School football star Christopher Warren Jones, has written an open letter to Recorder's Court Judge Gershwin Drain demanding that his son's 15-year-old killer be sentenced tomorrow as an adult.

The open letter to Drain has also been mailed to Gov. John Engler, Attorney General Frank Kelly, Wayne County Prosecutor John D. O'Hair and state Rep. Gregory Pitoniak, as Jones begins his fight to have state laws changed so that felons convicted of weapons-related crimes in Michigan cannot be sentenced as juveniles.

Drain, who found the defendant, Nathan Younce, guilty of voluntary manslaughter, assault with intent to do great bodily harm and the illegal use of a firearm in commission of a felony, will pass sentence sometime after 9 a.m. tomorrow in Courtroom 804, Frank Murphy Hall of Justice, in Detroit.

troit.

Jones urged concerned Romulus residents to attend the sentencing session.

Drain could sentence Younce to up to 15 years in prison. Or Drain has the power instead to sentence the 15-year-old as an juvenile, which would allow him to be released from a youth correctional facility at the age of 21.

Jones plans to begin an organized campaign to have the state law changed shortly after tomorrow's verdict is announced.

In his letter to Drain, Jones states that "on the night of Feb. 22, 1994, my son, Christopher Warren Jones was brutally murdered in a school parking lot in Romulus."

Jones continues "this deed was committed by a 15-year-old man, who has committed other serious crimes in the past and has always been treated with great care, as now, never to assure him that he maybe severely punished and/or be held accountable for his actions."

Jones never mentions Younce by name in his letter, but continues "now he has committed the ultimate crime that of murder of another human being, and this court has again told him and his friends (it is OK, you had an excuse.)"

Blasting trial testimony, Jones writes, "we all heard the testimonies and all agree

School millage wins approval

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Less than nine percent of Romulus voters turned out to approve the 3 mill tax hike proposal (that actually was a 2 percent cut for homeowners) on Sept. 20 by a vote of 795-547.

The Romulus Community School Board offered the tax proposal to eliminate the $1.9 million in district debts and to create funding for future school bus and computer software purchases and training of local teachers.

The tax proposal initially raises the tax rate for all taxpayers by 3 mills, Assistant Superintendent Joel Carr explained, but now homestead tax rates will drop by 5 mills. Such action creates an overall 2 mill cut in local homeowners' school tax rates.

Carr, who is in charge of the district financial programs, will be asking the board Monday night to set the winter tax levels for the district.

The tax changes were set up to give a financial break to homeowners, who have been very supportive of educational needs in recent years, Carr said.

The bulk of the new tax money will come from local businesses and industry, Carr said, who already have received major tax breaks via the recent Proposal A approval.

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell, who is beginning his 15th year in Romulus, said "local voters continue to impress me with their heavy support for education in this area."

Only three of the district precincts recorded negative votes on the millage proposal.

The were the 20th precinct (absentee ballots) with a vote of 88 yes to 149 no; the fifth precinct (Barth School area) with a total of 30 yes to 40 no and the ninth precinct (Hayti and old Gordinaire School area) with a vote of 19 yes to 20 no.

The heaviest vote totals in favor of the millage were scored in precinct two (Halecreek School) with a vote of 82 yes to 32 no and precinct four (Merriman School) with a vote of 52 yes to seven no.

Only 8.89 percent of the 15,101 voters turned out to vote, City Clerk Linda Choate reported.

City councilman demands apology

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Veteran Councilman Jimmie Raspberry exploded Monday night, when a former council candidate asked him about a real estate purchase and pointedly told the woman twice, "It's none of your damn business!"

The former candidate Gwen Sibert questioned Raspberry's purchase of a home from Best Way Co. several years ago, alluding to the fact that Douglas Wicklund (current president of the Environmental Disposal Services) had strings attached to that company.

During her stream of questions, Sibert asked, "Was it a conflict of interest? Did you get a plot plan?"

Raspberry became incensed by Sibert's line of questioning and said "I've served on this council 35 years and I have never been accused of misdealing!"

Twice during his comments Raspberry insisted Sibert "was getting involved in my personal business" and retorted both times "it's none of your damn business."

Both times Acting Mayor pro tem Randolph Gear tried to gavel Raspberry to order, condemning his use of the word "damn."

About 15 minutes later, Raspberry said he felt Sibert owed him an apology. He also told her that she could confer with his wife on the dealing on the home.

Raspberry later admitted that he met Wicklund in 1990, "long before there was a well dispute. Best Way had four houses they no longer needed and they were about to destroy them."

Raspberry said he paid $10,200 to have one moved. He admitted the house became a "white elephant" as he has spent more than $30,000 on it. "I have nothing to hide. I have all the records. Wicklund had nothing to do with it. I just find my privacy invaded here. The next thing that may happen is you'll be asking what I do at home with my 40-year-old wife," Raspberry complained.

Ready for picking

Orchard features cider, fresh apples at your fingertips

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Managing Editor

Trees are weighted down with ripe apples, just waiting to be picked at a family-owned apple orchard on Willow Road.

McIntosh, Jonnee, Jonathan, Empire and Red Delicious apples have ripened to perfection, while the peak season for varieties of Yellow Delicious, Ida Red, Winesap and Rome Beauty is just around the corner, according to Edwin Davies, owner of Davies Orchard and Cider Mill in New Boston.

"I prefer the Jonnees - an early type of Jonathans. They are tart, and a good all-around apple," Davies said.

As for the other varieties, Davies likes the McIntosh for eating and cooking and notes that the variety is very popular with cooks.

"Winesaps are tart, good for eating and cooking and are good keepers," said Davies. "Rome Beauties are a good tart apple - great for eating and cooking and excellent for baking."

Each day through mid-November, Davies and his son, Lyle, pick apples for sale and cider making and also open the orchard to those who want to pick their own apples.

"More people want to pick their own apples today. A lot of people return year after year with their families," Davies said. "It's a nice family outing. Kids can see how the apples grow and help with the picking, and everybody can get some exercise and fresh air."

The freshly pressed cider also draws many visitors.

"I've checked the prices in different markets, and some are cheaper than ours, but that doesn't seem to matter too much," Davies said. "We don't use any preservatives, and people like to know that their cider is fresh and free from chemicals."

Visitors to the orchard can observe the cider being made in a Thomas Albright cider press, which was built between 1900 and 1906 in Goshen, Ind., and purchased by Davies and brought to New Boston. Each press of 15 bushels of apples yields 45 to 50 gallons of pure apple cider.

Davies worked for apple growers in his youth and at the age of 21 went into the business himself.

"The apples became infested, and I lost the crop and got out of the business," Davies said. "I went to work for a trucking company in 1942 and worked there for 40 years."

Davies said he bought his property on Willow Road, south of Sibley Road, when it was "just a cornfield" and began planting apple trees on the 10-acre orchard which now has more than 2,000 trees.

Except for some pickers and occasional laborers, the Davies Orchard is operated by the family.

"We need a warm spring to produce good blossoms and have good bee action. Then we need plenty of rain, followed by warm weather in the summer months," Davies said. "Although apples are good this year, some are not as large as we'd like them to be. It's hard to pinpoint the reason, but we had three frosts during the blooming period."

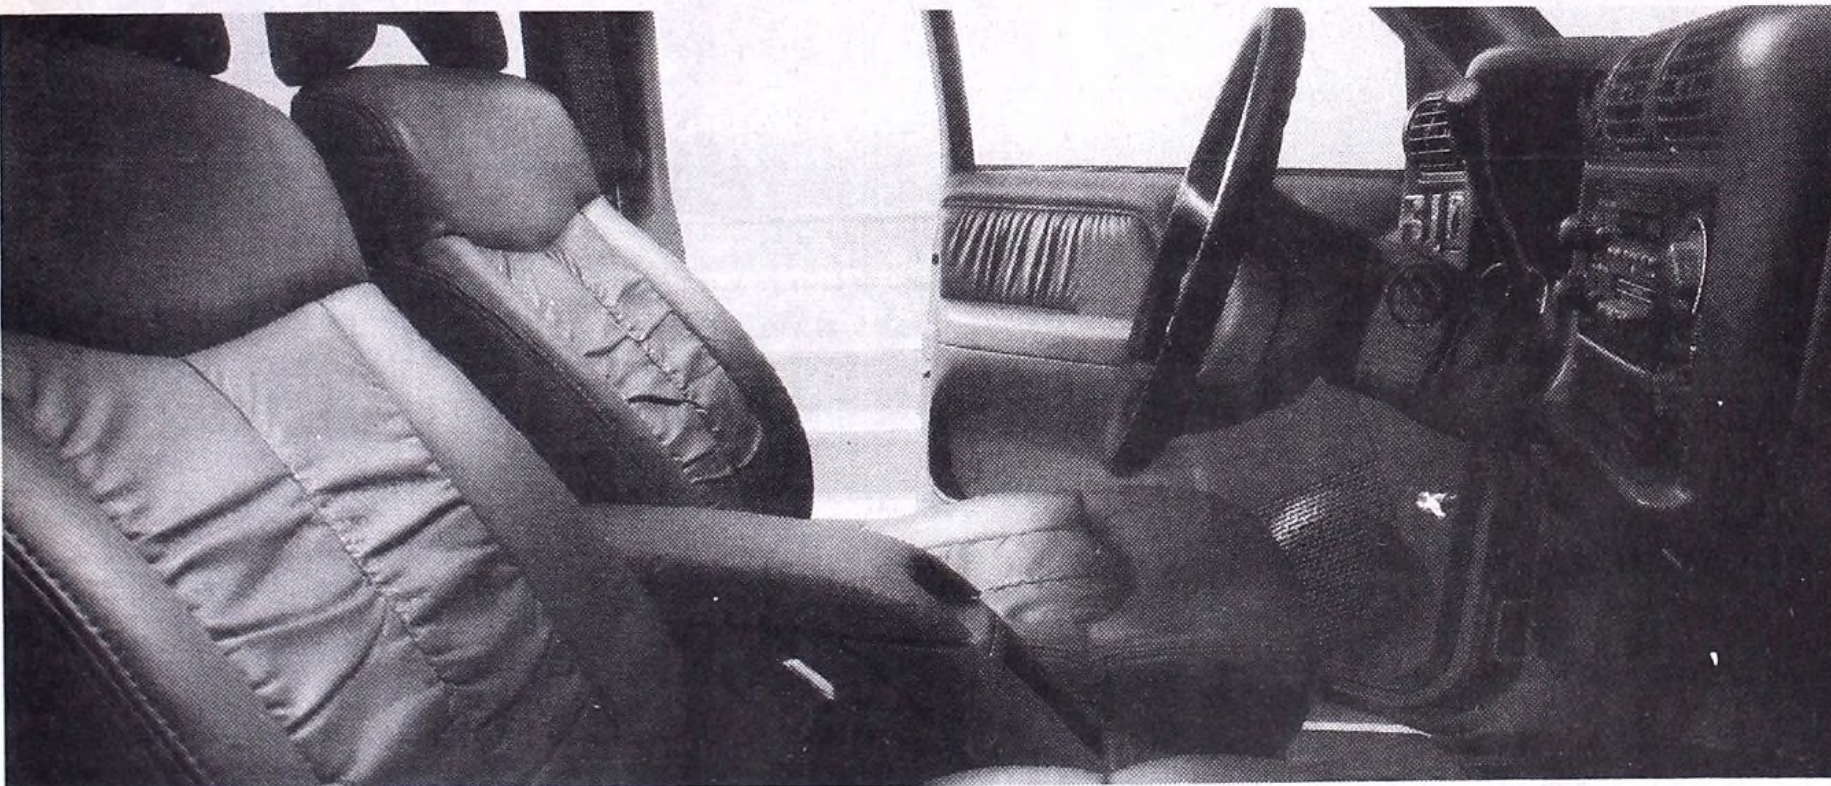

However, Davies noted, when you bite into a fresh-picked, juicy apple, the treat outweighs any problems of the past.

Davies Orchard can be reached by exiting Interstate-275 at Sibley Road and travelling west through New Boston to Waltz Road and then south to 40026 Willow Road.

In the family-operated business, there is work for everyone. Marguerite Davies (above packages) the product that her husband, Earl Davies (top right) picks from the trees. Daughter-in-law, Judy Davies oversees the cider press which processes from 45 to 50 gallons of apple cider in each pressing. MCN photo by Ken Garner

Homecoming parade slated on Oct. 14

A no fee permit for the 1994 Romulus High School Homecoming Parade was approved Monday night by the City Council.

The parade will begin at 5 p.m. Oct. 14 in the City Hall parking lot, and the route will follow Bibbins, north on Gabriel, west on Goddard Road, north on Ozga Road, east on Wick Road to Romulus Middle School.

2 police officers cited

Patrolmen Matt Robertson and Kenneth J.P. Landstrom were cited recently by the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for assisting in the hunt for fugitive Robert Kelly.

FBI Supervisory Special Agent Larry Kuhl cited Robertson for being the "first responding officer" to assist FBI agents when an assistance call was made early in the hunt for the escaped felon.

His knowledge of the search area also was a great assist in creating a secure northern perimeter for the FBI team, Kuhl said.

Landstrom also was cited for helping special agents through the heavily wooded area that the escaped felon had run through. The officer also was praised for helping special agents search many of the vacant buildings in the area during extremely hot weather conditions.

1,212 amusement tickets were sold

A total of 1,212 discounted amusement park tickets were sold to area residents through the Romulus Department of Recreation this summer.

More than $300 in revenue was raised for the city through the sales, Brian Hitsky, recreation department director, reported Monday.

5 communities oppose well plans

Five Michigan communities have notified Romulus city government they support Michigan House Bill 5276, which would oppose any commercial hazardous waste injection wells opening any where in the state.

The communities, who have sent letters confirming the opposition, include Plainwell, Dearborn Heights, Buchanan, Melvindale and Clinton Village.

CROP walk set to begin Sunday

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Additional walkers and pledgers for the 1994 10K Belleville-Romulus CROP Walk are still being sought, the Father John Hagan, Walk Coordinator, reported this week.

The symbolic walk for the hungry will begin shortly after 1:15 p.m. Sunday in the parking lot of the Community United Methodist Church, Bibbins and Olive Streets in Romulus, and will then proceed through rural Romulus into Belleville.

It will climax at the Trinity Episcopal Church at 11575 Belleville Road in Belleville, where cookies, pizza and cold drinks will be offered to those finishing the walk for area and worldwide needy families.

While 300 walkers had been hoped for by Father Hagan and Maureen Savage, chairperson of the Romulus Christian walkers, it appears less than that will actually turn out on Sunday.

The top Romulus area walker and fund raiser, Lance Knudson, a math and science teacher from Romulus High School, will be forced to miss the 1994 CROP walk, Hagan said. But Knudson promises to return to the walk next year.

Knudson not only was the top money earner in Romulus during the last few years, Hagan said, he also was one of the leaders in the state of Michigan.

The CROP Walk route also has been realigned this year because of road construction efforts in the area, Hagan said, and maps will be given to all walkers as they sign up Sunday afternoon.

Rest stops have been arranged for Hannan Road and Huron River Drive in Romulus and French Landing and Huron River Drive in Van Buren Township.

Two years ago local walkers raised $17,000 for the hungry,

Two years ago local walkers raised $17,000 for the hungry.

he said, and last year was "a banner year as we raised $21,600."

Also missing from the current walk, Hagan said, will be the Rev. and Mrs. J.D. (Carolyn) Landis of Romulus who are no longer in the area.

"We have got a lot to make up this transition year, but we still expect a healthy turnout as a lot of dedicated activists will make the day a major success," Hagan vowed.

Assisting Savage in Romulus will be the Rev. Brad Lewis, new pastor of the Community United Methodist Church. "I totally support the CROP walk effort and will be both a walker and pledger."

One fourth of the money collected next Sunday will go to local agencies, Hagan said, and 75 percent is distributed by Church World Service throughout the U.S. and the world.

In addition to the two mentioned churches, others taking part will be the First United Methodist Church of Belleville, Belleville United Presbyterian, St. Anthony's Roman Catholic and the Faith United Methodist Church of Denton.

Michigan has raised more money the last eight years with CROP walk activities than any other state, Hagan said.

Last year statewide 30,000 CROP Walkers raised $1.75 million. The local CROP was the fifth largest of the 33 conducted in the four county Metro area, he said.

Pledge sheets and other information can be obtained by calling Hagan at 699-3361.

there were many half truths and out right lies. But the hard evidence and facts are clear!"

Jones' letter then goes on to state that "the defendant brought with him an unregistered illegal gun with the serial number ground off. This in itself is a crime.

"The defendant's girlfriend, who was the driver of the car that night, testified in open court that she knew the defendant had the gun," Jones continued.

The letter adds that the "defendant's girl friend also said that as they were leaving, they decided to go back and confront the persons in the van" (driven by the murder victim).

Jones said, in Younce's own confession, he admits "he shot my son and even sketched a picture of the happening for the police."

Then loosely quoting the judge's own statements, Jones said, "you said in essence that no intelligent jury would ever

Board recall threatened

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

Residents threatened to recall the entire Wayne-Westland School Board Monday night following their recent budget cutting action which eliminated secondary transportation by Oct. 24.

"If there's no answer to transportation, we'll have an instant recall and all of you will be out of a job," Westland resident Barry Hensel said.

Other citizens yelled "recall!" throughout the four-hour board meeting and two parents groups distributed fliers in front of the school board offices encouraging other parents to work as a group to fight the cuts.

With $1.25 million in cuts still necessary to balance the 1994-95 budget, some 200 people came to express their anger with the $600,000 cost-cutting effort which eliminated junior and senior high school busing and 19 transportation workers.

Parents complained of the four-to seven-mile walks their children will take to school, the danger of walking in sub-zero weather in the winter, danger from area gangs, the inability of working parents to get their children to and from school, and the high salaries of administrators.

Zoning reappointments urged

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

The first logjam in selecting who will be named or renamed to the city Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) apparently was broken Monday night, as the Romulus Appointment Advisory Committee reached a compromise and voted to recommend that the three existing members be retained.

Thus, whenever a full seven member council attends an upcoming meeting, the issue will be voted upon by the full council. Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks was absent from the Monday night meeting. Since a close vote on the appointments is expected, Mayor Beverly ther study.

Engler, however, appeared with McAnally at the Sept. 16 ground-breaking of the Vining Road interchange and was given an extremely warm welcome by the mayor, even though both executives are members of opposing political parties and Engler is currently involved in a re-election campaign with Democrat Howard Wolpe.

It is hoped that the Vining Road interchange will lead to massive development in Romulus and the creation of many new jobs. Talks concerning casinos, a possible Tiger Stadium, a convention center and even a regional family-style amusement park being located on the more than 1,000 acres of city owned land have been heard in recent years.

"My daughter will walk 4-1/2 miles ... I'm sick and tired of having my kids selectively chosen," Westland parent Linda Caualetto said. "My daughter can drive in November, but she can't have a parking permit because they're all gone. If that happens, I'll sue the pants off this district."

District parent Kay Rais expressed her serious concern about the violence in and around the schools.

"If my child has to walk to school, I'll ban my child from school," Rais said.

Others sought administrators salaries as the solution.

"It's unreal when we as parents have to suffer. Some almost loss their jobs over this last year," parent Virginia Wilhelmi said, adding that the district should cut librarians or the hot lunch program instead.

"Can you honestly justify making $110,000 a year knowing we have a crisis situation here. When's the last time a house cleaning was done in this administration," Inkster resident Laura Sanchez asked Thomas.

"We've made administrative cuts every year," Thomas responded.

Transportation workers questioned why their jobs, which are low-paying in comparison to other school employees were among the first to go.

"It seems like you just don't care. At $15,000 a year, my job is a drop in the bucket. My job is worth less than some of your cars," laid off bus driver Kathalene Corney said.

Transportation worker and parent Denise Thomas also questioned whether the administration had made provisions to provide a safe place for children to wait before and after school.

"We'll find elementary paraprofessionals to help students get in early and stay later," Dr. Thomas responded.

Canton resident Katie Millard questioned the ability of the district to provide these personnel and asked if she could volunteer to be a monitor in the school her child attends.

"I think other parents need to take on the responsibility as well," she added.

Board member Laurel Rainsanen reminded residents that the failure of past millages caused the enormous deficit which the board now faces.

"We ran a millage election in April 1992 which failed. Had it passed, things would be much different today," Rainsanen said.

McAnally and the council indicated that the vote should be made by the entire council body.

Nominated are current members Norman McLenon, Junior Block and alternate Mary Collins.

The nomination selection took place at 5:45 p.m. Monday at a special meeting called by committee chairman Randolph Gear. Other members of the committee are Councilmen Ellis Pennington and Jimmie Raspberry.

What makes the naming of members of the ZBA so important at this time is they will be the deciding factor locally on the zoning of the planned Environmental Disposal Services deep well.

The ZBA decision does not need to be supported by the council, as the zoning unit is an autonomous unit.

The city contends that the well as it is currently dug off Wahrman and Grant Roads in Romulus is zoned improperly. The property currently owned by John Ryznar and leased by EDS is zoned light industry (M-1). The city states that the well should be located in a (MT-2) industrial-trucking company zone.

David Paul, director of the city building department, revealed the ZBA will set a meeting date for the EDS hearing at its Oct. 5 meeting.

Both McAnally and city Community Development Director Jane Downing have attended several national and regional casino related seminars in the past two years to learn the process of attracting such casino developments.

While some minor citizen verbal opposition has been raised to potential casinos at past City Council meetings, no major opposition leaders have appeared as yet.

In the meantime, McAnally and council leaders have continued to stress at such meetings that at this time casinos are not allowed by state law in Romulus.

But most if not all council members appear to support possible casinos being located within the city, although several continue to refrain from making public statements on the issue.

Romulus leaders also have held off from guaranteeing that city voters would be offered a chance to express their views in an advisory election, similar to the ones conducted in Detroit in recent years.

McAnally continues to state that while she has some reservations toward casinos in general, so feels that municipalities must find some alternate revenue sources to pay for the heavy cost of government operations today.

But, the mayor admitted, the next step with the Iacocca forces lies with the former Chrysler chairman himself.

Meanwhile some anti-casino forces reported being stunned by last week's revelations and now feel they must act quickly too. Dr. John Mecartney, a retired veteran Metro-area anti-casino activist, will be speaking at 11 a.m. Sunday at the Community United Methodist Church at the urging of the Rev. Brad Lewis, pastor of the congregation.

find this as first degree murder, because someone shooting somebody only once with only a .22 calibre does not necessarily prove intent to kill."

Jones then emotionally asked "What size gun do you bring when you come with intent to kill?"

"Is this listed in the book of excuses?" Jones asks.

"According to other testimony," Jones letter continues, "the defendant fired the gun once and it misfired. Then he chased and fired again. He admits that he saw a girl (referring to my son's girlfriend) in the van crying, so he shot at her two more times. She was lucky, she ducked and he missed. But you again decided to rule that less than first degree attempted murder. I wonder what is attempted murder in your book of excuses."

The three-page letter continues "my son got out of the van and met their confrontation with a baseball bat, that is true and could be seen as an irresponsible act on his part.

"But he felt he was defending himself from four possible assailants. He also was asking them to leave the area and leave him and his girl friend alone. Why didn't the four assailants just drive away?" Jones asked.

"Well we all know why, they knew they had a gun and had nothing to fear!" Jones wrote.

"Please remember," Jones urged the judge, "they came to my son's vehicle. He did not go to them."

Then in his most compelling argument, Jones tells Drain "you stated that the act that the defendant had committed did in fact fulfill the requirements of second degree murder.

"However you felt that the defendant was acting in the heat of passion in the defense of his girl friend. For that reason, you were reducing the charge to voluntary manslaughter," Jones wrote.

"You also said that my deceased son was guilty of at least assault, if not assault and battery. Well this is absurd, he was not on trial, yet you declared him guilty.

"I have been told that this is all the fault of the state legislature and I should complain to them. Well I agree. We need to make it plain. There are no excuses," Jones said. "I just wonder if the fact this case is being heard in your court is even constitutional. I cannot vote for you, so I assume you have no accountability to me or any of my fellow Wayne County residents, unless they live in Detroit. Yet I understand we pay your salary. Something does not sound right."

As to "how my family, friends and I want you to sentence the convicted felon" that's easy...as an adult."

Jones and his family will attend the Sept. 30 sentencing session in Detroit. They are pressing for sentencing of Younce as an adult. They are hoping also to get some answers to this letter from Drain in his sentencing statement.

Father of ailing child says 'thanks' for help

By GRETCHEN MADICK
MCN Special Writer

Expressing appreciation for the community benefit for his daughter, Paul Smith thanked the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees and the community for the funds raised to help his daughter, Stephanie. "We will do anything to help Stephanie," said the child's father.

The 6-1/2-year-old girl has been in hospitals around the country for the past four years. She has had 13 surgeries, including the amputation of her left leg below the knee.

For the past year, Stephanie has been in Memphis, Tenn., with her mother receiving chemotherapy and plasmaforisis, a blood treatment during which blood is removed from her body, treated and returned.

Ford announces plant expansion plans

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

Having already announced in August their plans to add a third crew to the Michigan Truck Plant in Wayne, Ford Motor Co. officials are bringing to the Wayne council table another plate of good news.

Wayne council members showed their full support last week for the significant expansion plans of two Ford Motor Co. plants in the city.

Ford officials informed the council of a 97,500-square-foot addition to the Wayne Stamping Plant and a 28,000-square-foot building addition to the west side of the existing assembly plant.

“The plans probably bring me as much pleasure to present to you as for you to consider,” said Debbie Manns, community development director at council meeting last week. “Both expansions will be utilized in order to expedite the retooling process.”

The 97,500-square-foot Stamping Plant addition will be located at the north end of the west side of the existing stamping plant. Ford officials have also planned a concrete driveway to the northeast of the building addition.

“Upon recommendation of the staff, the planning commission voted unanimously at their Sept. 13 meeting to recommend to the city council that the plan be approved with contingencies,” Manns said.

The contingencies include: Providing calculations for a storm water system; verifying that materials and all related fire line fittings should conform to city of Wayne and Detroit Water and Sewerage Department standards; and verify that access drives will be constructed to maintain vehicles weighing up to 51,000 pounds.

“They must keep all fire lanes clear of obstructions during and after construction,” Manns said. “They need to also have water mains and fire hydrants installed, tested, chlorinated and accepted by the city prior to any construction of the building.”

Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield said he was very pleased with the continued progress of Ford in the city.

“This is quite a significant addition to the city,” Warfield said. “Both plant expansions will provide a significant tax revenue.”

Plant will be built on the west side of the existing assembly plant. The planning commission gave their approval for the construction.

“There are a few contingencies which including providing calculations for a storm water system,” said Manns. “They must also verify that materials and all related fire line fittings conform to city of Wayne and Detroit Water and Sewerage Department standards.”

Construction of both expansion plans is expected to begin this month.

Business to erect new wall

A long-time dispute between the city of Belleville and John Bokon, owner of J&T Towing, may be resolved next month if the business owner's plans to erect a screening fence at the rear of his Sumpster Road property is completed on schedule.

More than a year ago, the city entered an agreement by which Bokon would erect a wall around his property to screen the yard. Impounded and wrecked cars are stored on the property.

At the Sept. 19 meeting of the Belleville City Council, Bokon said he had 220 feet of posts installed and all but three panels erected at the rear of the property.

"On Nov. 1, it will all be completed," Bokon told the council.

Bokon blamed the wet weather in the early part of the year for his failure to erect the fence this spring. Later, he said, contractors were busy with other projects and he was unable to get the work done.

"We also need a grading and erosion plan. Get on the ball and get it done," said Councilman David Fields, who noted that Bokon was past due on submitting the required plan.

Fields invited Bokon to attend the Oct. 3 council meeting to present an update on his projects.

If Bokon does not comply, the city could take action for forfeiture of a $25,000 performance bond. Councilmen considered taking such action at the Sept. 6 meeting, but the motion failed.

Belleville City Attorney John Day said that even though the council did not take action on the performance bond forfeiture earlier this month, action could be taken at a later date.

Bokon has occupied the site since 1988.

Fugitive sought in area after daring escape

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Where is Leon Dilworth?
Could his whereabouts be known to family members or friends in Belleville or another nearby city?

These are the questions that Inkster police have attempted to answer ever since the 19-year-old resident, accused of three counts of attempted murder, escaped from the city jail.

Dilworth has disappeared into thin air, and remains a fugitive from justice.

"We have followed up some leads but they have led to nowhere," said Inkster Detective James Vergona, who is in charge of the investigation. "We need some help on this one."

Vergona added that the escapee has family in Belleville and "that we have checked them out and they have not heard from him (Dilworth). We just don't know where he

"We have followed up some leads but they have led to nowhere."

- James Vergona

is at this time."

How Dilworth made good on his escape is what Hollywood movie scripts are made of, and his disappearance continues to baffle local and area law enforcement.

Dilworth and a co-defendant, Reginald Taylor, were arrested and charged in a drive-by shooting that apparently was in retaliation of the shooting death of Taylor's mother.

Angela Taylor, 36, was shot to death while asleep in the family home on Carlyle Avenue on July 1, 1994 in what police said was a drive-by shooting. No suspects have been arrested, and the case remains open.

Two weeks later, Dilworth and Taylor allegedly were involved in an argument with people who they believe were involved in Mrs. Taylor's death. That argument led to the shooting police believe.

Police arrested Dilworth and Taylor and housed them in separate cells until their examinations. However, before Dilworth made his appearance before 22nd District Court Judge Sylvia James, he managed to escape.

Police believe that Dilworth had the help of a friend.

Dilworth shared a cell with Cedric Booker, an acquaintance of Dilworth, police said.

Dilworth persuaded Booker, 17, who was in jail because he failed to post a $200 bond for misdemeanor, to allow him to use his name. Then, he got on the cell telephone and asked a friend to come to the police station and post a bond for Booker.

When the friend arrived at the station with the bond money, a civilian police employee went to the cell block and told Booker that his friend had posted the bond. Instead of Booker walking out of the cell, Dilworth did, after picking up Booker's property, walked out of the station.

And he has apparently disappeared.

While the search for Dilworth continues, police have now tacked on to Booker's original charge of fleeing and eluding arrest, the additional charge of aiding and abetting a prisoner to escape, which carries up to 10-years if convicted.

The court held the examination for Taylor and found sufficient evidence to bind him over for trial. He was sent downtown to answer to attempted murder. The case will be heard next month in Recorder's Court.

Board takes action

A contract for lawn service has been renewed by the Van Buren Township Board for the 1995 and 1996 mowing season.

Pioneer, the lowest bidder in 1993, will be retained. Contracts will remain the same with workers' compensation insurance documents to be kept in a file at the township office.

Clerk Cindy King expressed approval of the past service and a motion carried to authorize a 10 percent increase in 1995 and 5 percent in 1996.

In other business, township officials urged residents to write to their congressmen to express opposition to Senate Bill 1822. Presently, they said, the township board must approve cable company expansion, as right-of-ways are affected. Agreements could be put in jeopardy by the passage of this bill, they said.

Supervisor David Jakokes

and Clerk King were authorized to sign a letter opposing the bill at the Sept. 20 meeting.

Other discussion included:

- Information that Waste Management will now assume responsibility for removing freon from refrigerators left for pick up. Residents must still remove doors on appliances to ensure safety for children. Call 285-1579 for a truck to remove a refrigerator.
- Jokes requested that citizens "speak louder in support of veterans." He noted that a candlelight veterans' ceremony conducted this year will be scheduled again next year, and urged participation.
- Trustee John Cicotte cautioned residents that those who change their residences and not their phone numbers, should notify the telephone company so that the 911 listing will be updated.
- Public Safety Director Mark Perkins noted that the 24-hour, confidential tip line can be reached at 699-8940.

Third crew added to Wayne Ford Plant

Having already announced in August their plans to add a third crew to the Michigan Truck Plant in Wayne, Ford Motor Co. officials are bringing to the Wayne council table another plate of good news.

Wayne council members showed their full support last week for the significant expansion plans of two Ford Motor Co. plants in the city.

Ford officials informed the council of a 97,500-square-foot addition to the Wayne Stamping Plant and a 28,000-square-foot building addition to the west side of the existing assembly plant.

"The plans probably bring me as much pleasure to present to you as for you to consider," said Debbie Manns, community development director at council meeting last week. "Both expansions will be utilized in order to expedite the retooling process."

The 97,500-square-foot Stamping Plant addition will be located at the north end of the west side of the existing stamping plant. Ford officials have also planned a concrete driveway to the northeast of the building addition.

"Upon recommendation of the staff, the planning commission voted unanimously at their Sept. 13 meeting to recommend to the city council that the plan be approved with contingencies," Manns said.

The contingencies include: Providing calculations for a storm water system; verifying that materials and all related fire line fittings should conform to city of Wayne and Detroit Water and Sewerage Department standards; and verify that access drives will be constructed to maintain vehicles weighing up to 51,000 pounds.

"They must keep all fire lanes clear of obstructions during and after construction," Manns said. "They need to also have water mains and fire hydrants installed, tested, chlorinated and accepted by the city prior to any construction of the building."

Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield said he was very pleased with the continued progress of Ford in the city.

"This is quite a significant addition to the city," Warfield said. "Both plant expansions will provide a significant tax revenue."

The 28,000-square-foot addition to the Wayne Assembly Plant will be built on the west side of the existing assembly plant.

INTERVENING SHOWS YOU CARE ABOUT AN ALCOHOLIC LOVED ONE

by Sangnur V. Mahadevan, M.D.

Enjoying GOOD HEALTH

In many cases, the least recognized victim of alcoholism is the alcoholic.

We readily see members of an alcoholic's family as victims of alcoholism, especially when they are subjects of abuse or when the alcoholic spends household funds to sustain a dependency. We also accept that society is victimized by alcoholism, so we enact laws to deal with alcohol-related problems, such as limiting the legal purchase age or restricting use of alcohol while driving.

Seldom do we focus on the physical damage alcohol causes to the drinking individual. And often, the most ignored person is the non-aggressive, non-abusive drinker who fulfills his or her responsibilities at work and at home.

Long-term poisoning
Abuse of alcohol destroys virtually every body system and function: the brain, the heart, the digestive system, the liver. A one-time alcohol overdose can cause immediate death by cardiac or respiratory failure. At the other end of the spectrum, steady drinkers who consume more than two beers, two cocktails, or two glasses of wine daily poison their bodies slowly over a period of years. Sometimes there is no warning: early death or disability may result from the first episode of an alcohol-induced disorder.

When alcohol depresses brain function, it also masks pain, lulling the person into a false sense of health. Further, alcohol may hinder rational judgment that allows an individual to recognize his or her own problem. Avoidance and denial are particularly easy when families, friends, and co-workers don't have reason to complain about abuse or irresponsibility.

Your actions can save a life
Medical support is a vital component of alcohol withdrawal. Your doctor can supply details about specific alcohol-related medical problems and prescribe medications to ease some distress of withdrawal — and help your loved one remain alcohol free.

If you have a loved one who you fear drinks too much, talk to your doctor or seek assistance of a reputable support group, such as Alcoholics Anonymous or Al-Anon. Your love and support can save a precious life from an early death.

Jury trial set for man accused of beating wife

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

A jury trial has been scheduled for Westland resident Paul Thomas Cramer, who is accused of beating his wife to death with a baseball bat in late March.

Cramer, 48, will appear before Detroit Recorder's Judge Helen Brown Nov. 3 on charges of first-degree murder. He is being held without bond pending the trial.

The defendant turned himself in to Westland police after allegedly bludgeoning his wife to death as she slept in their family home during the early morning hours on March 29, Westland police Sgt. Marc Stobbe said.

Paulette Cramer, 47, was allegedly beaten as she lay in the couple's bed around 2 a.m. Mrs. Cramer was pronounced dead later that morning at Garden City Hospital suffering from fatal head injuries.

According to Wayne County medical examiner Dr. Sawait Kanlun, whose autopsy report was read into the court record during preliminary examination in Westland 18th District Court, the 120-pound victim died of at least three blunt force injuries to the head.

The couple's daughter, Pamela Cramer, was inside the family home located on the 32000 block of Sandra Lane when the alleged bludgeoning occurred. The 25-year-old daughter testified that she heard "slamming noises" as she was laying in bed across the hall from the couple's room.

"I heard the garage door close and my dad's truck leave. I said something is not right," Cramer testified.

When Cramer went to her parent's bedroom to investigate, she found her mother lying on the bed with blood on her face.

Cramer went back to her bedroom and called 911. She followed the directions of the 911 operator, but there was no response from her mother.

"She wasn't breathing and didn't have a pulse," Cramer testified.

Meanwhile, the defendant drove to the Westland Police Station and confessed to the crime. According to Stobbe, Cramer went to the front desk, held his hands in the air and said, "I surrender -- I just killed my wife."

Westland police officer Greg Angelosanto testified that after he arrested the defendant, Cramer said, "You'll find my fingerprints on the bat."

You'd have to know what's going on to understand it."

According to Stobbe, Cramer suspected his wife of having an affair. However, Stobbe said, family and friends told police it was highly unlikely the woman was committing adultery because the woman was far too busy with her work.

"He is a jealous man. There is no indication that she did that," Stobbe said.

Cramer said her parents argued often, but the arguments did not become physical. However, a few days prior to the incident her father threatened the victim, saying he was going to get a lawyer, Cramer said.

Man pleads guilty to unarmed robbery

A 26-year-old Dexter man pleaded guilty to two counts of unarmed robbery in connection with a robbery in Westland and another in Canton Township.

Ted Alexander Wade, who is also suspected in a Washtenaw County robbery, is being held without bond pending his sentencing on the two charges before Detroit Recorder's Judge Michael Sapala Oct. 4.

Wade was charged in connection with the July 10 robbery of Howard's Hoagies restaurant, located at 1553 S. Wayne Road in Westland.

According to a cook at the restaurant, Wade exited the store restroom around 6 p.m. and with his hand in his back pant pocket, approached the counter. As he was "swaying back and forth" Wade looked at the menu and about a minute later approached the counter, cook Kimberly Polovino said.

"He approached the counter with his hand in his back pocket and said, 'I have a gun in my pocket. I want all the money right now,'" Polovino testified.

Although the victim testified that she could not see a gun, she said she was frightened by the statement and placed the $307 in cash on the counter. According to testimony, the defendant grabbed the money and ran out the door.

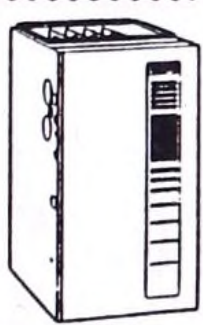

Wade was charged in Canton Township for robbing the Clark gas station, located on the 44000 block of Ford Road, on July 9, according to Canton Township Community Relations Officer Tammie Colling.

A station employee told police a white male in his late 20's entered the station at 2 p.m. and made a purchase. Once the employee opened the register, the robber allegedly told the attendant he had a gun and wanted the money.

Sound Off 729-4006 is intended to be a community soap box. Suggested uses are expressing opinions, providing information, complaining, letting off steam, razzing an enemy, and influencing the upcoming elections in favor of your candidate or against the other party's.

Compared with other public forums, like talk radio, Sound Off 729-4006 is more accessible, insulates the caller from a moderator's meddling, and allows the caller absolute anonymity.

All we ask is for the caller to speak clearly and not to swear, slander, or knock ethnic or racial groups.

Call 729-4006 between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m., and read what you and others have to say next Thursday.

Opinion

Kids with guns deserve expulsion

Sometimes, some good news comes out of Lansing. This week was one of those times.

The state Legislature approved a measure which will bar students from school if they are caught with weapons on school property. The students face the same penalty for committing arson or rape on school property.

While the get-tough policy on gun-brandishing and knife-wielding youths has not been signed into law as yet, a spokesman for Gov. John Engler said he will do so within a week. His signature will pave the way for the new policy to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1995 - in our opinion, a good way to start the new year.

During the House and Senate debates, some lawmakers complained that the new policy will put some violators out on the streets instead of making provisions to keep them in the classrooms.

If so, so be it. Our prime concern must be to educate the students who desire to learn and to provide a safe atmosphere for them in the schools.

Carrying guns and knives into the classroom, committing rapes and acts of arson are not childhood pranks. They are serious crimes, and are, in part, responsible for the decline in our educational system.

Learning cannot be done in an atmosphere of apprehension and fear, and, likewise, teaching cannot be accomplished when teachers are forced into becoming wardens and guards instead of educators.

In many areas, youngsters are afraid to go to school because of threats of violence. Their fears have prompted some students to arm themselves for protection, and, thereby, have exacerbated the proliferation of weapons in the schools.

There has to be a halt to the problem of violence in the schools, and this is a major step in the right direction.

Inkster steps forward

We salute the decision of Inkster community leaders to re-establish an Inkster Chamber of Commerce.

By re-establishing the local business group which was phased out several years ago because of lack of participation, the city leaders are taking a major step in revitalizing the city.

The chamber, dubbed "the business community at work," is the agency for business, industry, the professions and all civic and community interests. They provide services that no individual business could do alone. While each chamber has its own unique programs and goals, all provide valuable services the the community.

Publisher extends helping hand

One of the reasons Michigan Community Newspapers was born, and simultaneously purchased Associated Newspapers, was that Kathy and I desired to make a difference in the communities we now call our home - Belleville, Canton, Inkster, Romulus, Wayne and Westland.

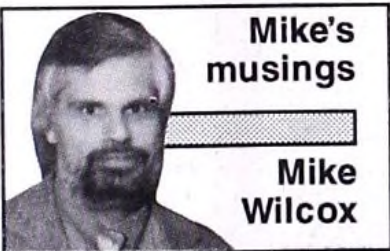

It's no secret that these areas have their share of impoverished families. Likewise, the areas as a whole have many community organizations that lend a helping hand to the less fortunate at every opportunity.

Michigan Community Newspapers would like to lend many hands in an all-out onslaught to make the lives of the less fortunate in Western Wayne a little more tolerable.

Here's what we propose and hope you will help us with. Each and every business day, Michigan Community Newspapers will make a donation of an item (essentials like clothing, food, etc.) or whatever in the value of approximately $50 to a family or organization in need.

On behalf of your organization or directly as a family member or individual we need your help in identifying those people that need help. Kathy and I sincerely hope you will flood our mailbox with requests.

Secondly, we have an on-going subscription drive in an effort to boost subscription sales. As part of that drive, a portion of the $26 a year subscription price goes to support our Christmas Wish Fund. That project which was initiated during the Christmas season of 1993, fulfilled the Christmas wishes of more than three dozen people.

Mike's musings

That project provided nearly a half dozen bikes to disadvantaged children, a car to a person who had no means of transportation, dozens of toys to families that couldn't afford to purchase their children presents and a grave marker to the mother of an infant child that had died recently.

The 1994 edition of the Christmas Wish Fund will be greatly expanded. Through the donations of concerned businesspeople and citizens who wish to purchase a subscription to their local newspaper our goal will be to fulfill 100 wishes this season.

We hope you will come along for the ride. Subscriptions can be purchased by calling Justin, Sybille or Cindy each and every work day at 729-4000. Likewise, if you know of a family or individual in need, give us a call or write Michigan Community Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Position clarified

To the editor:

Until the leadership of this school district is willing to establish a system by which we address the cause of the continued erosion of public education, I cannot vote to cut any big ticket items such as transportation.

For years the quality of education throughout Michigan, but more specifically Wayne-Westland, has been threatened by the manner in which the state legislation and our current governor chooses to prioritize the importance of public education. The students of Wayne-Westland deserve better.

When I graduated from John Glenn High School in 1981, I had more opportunities offered to me and less expected of me than the students regarding the MEAP (Michigan Educational Assessment Program) test and the newly implemented state-endorsed diploma, students today need more advantages not less than I had 13 years ago.

Last year's efforts to equitable fund education have failed, and Wayne-Westland is a shining example of that failure. In the past, we could attempt to temporarily suppress the problem by asking the voters of our community to approve additional mills which afforded our school district extra dollars and on several occasions stalled the inevitable deterioration of programs within our school district.

Today, we are limited in the number of mills we can request from our community. Richer school districts have the opportunity to levy more mills than districts in the county agree to stage millage elections. This seems an insurmountable task. Once again, this is also unfair.

We are a perfect example of a cause and effect scenario. Instead of addressing the problem at its root or the cause which is obviously at the state level, we continue to be acted upon and react to the effects with solutions like millage elections and program cuts. These are not solutions.

It is time that we as a community and perhaps joined by other school districts facing the same problem attack the problem at the root and stand up and say we aren't going to take this any more and that the students of Wayne-Westland deserve better or at least the same as the best districts are offering their students today.

Fun Day appreciated

To the editor:

On behalf of our organization we would like to have published our letter of appreciation and thanks to all those local organizations and businesses who helped with our first annual Fun Day picnic for area children and residents.

This event was a large success based on donations enough to feed over 300 people, participating on painting and clean-up of an area playground and prizes given from area businesses. The Inkster Fire Dept. and Police Dept. gave safety demonstrations and various neighbors donated time in trimming bushes, chopping down trees and painting.

We, the members of Children of Parents Making A Difference, ourselves residents, youth at one time, wanted to give the youth in the area a good memory. With increasing taxes and different budget restraints, we realize the summer programs were changing and with idol time on the hands and minds of today's youth we know where this can lead. I must admit I got the opportunity to develop some new bonds, see some old friendly faces and meet alot of my new neighbors. Because of the success of this picnic we have began the process of planning next years picnic. But for now since the dust has settled, the memory has been captured and before the snow comes down. We would like to say thanks alot!

Inkster

Foot notes: Do you favor the expulsion of students with weapons?

Joy Atwood
Wayne
It's a good idea. Too many kids bring weapons to schools.

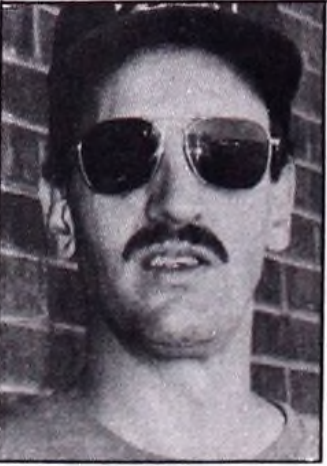

Kathy Strong
Westland
Yes, it will make the schools safer for kids.

David Williams
Wayne
Teachers shouldn't have to be wardens. The small core of trouble-makers shouldn't be tolerated.

Earl Mink
Belleville
Kids with guns should be expelled, also those who disrupt and fight.

Gary Cox
Westland
No doubt. It's ridiculous to have guns in schools.

Tyrone Wheatley

'Miracle' overshadows Wheatley's return

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

A "miracle" overshadowed the return Saturday afternoon to the gridiron of former Robichaud High football great and University of Michigan Heisman Trophy hopeful Tyrone Wheatley.

Wheatley, sidelined for the first two Wolverine games with a shoulder injury sustained in a pre-season scrimmage, made his belated debut against the No. 7 ranked Colorado before a crowd of 106,427 at the U of M Stadium in Ann Arbor.

And, despite setting an all-time Wolverine record for the most TD scored, Wheatley's performance was eclipsed by a miracle that took form in a desperation, last-play, 65-yard deflected pass by Colorado QB Kordell Stewart that wound up in Michael Westbrook's arms in the end zone for a "miracle" touchdown.

That pass sent a shock wave through U of M Stadium and lifted Colorado to a 27-26 victory over the previously undefeated Wolverines.

It was a sad one to lose, moaned U of M coach Gary Moeller after the game, which has to be the understatement of the decade.

It was a miracle, said Stewart, who is a disciple of Colorado coach Bill McCartney, who is founder of Promise Keepers, a men's Christian group that advocates men's leadership role in communities and churches.

McCartney is also noted for his exceptional football and basketball teams at Dearborn Divine Child where he carried on a tradition that former D.C. coaching great Tony Versaci started.

The first-time Wheatley officials carried the ball, with 2:08 on the clock in the first period. The Wolverines were down 7-0. He picked up a first down on a outside run that moved U of M to 46. He came right back on the second play and plowed to the Colorado 30, but the drive stalled and Moeller decided to go for a field goal, and the 42-yard attempt crashed into the crossbar and fell back onto the infield.

However, on their next series, Colorado fumbled and Michigan recovered deep in Buffalo territory. The Wolverines marched to the 16 where a personal foul pushed them back and, with 11:34 on the clock, again Moeller called out kicker Hamilton who this time connected on a 33-yarder to cut into the Buffalo lead, 7-3.

In less than six minutes, Colorado was back on the scoreboard, this time with a 33-yard pass from Stewart to Westbrook and, with 7:54 left to the intermission Colorado led 14-3.

6 errors fatal for Romulus

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Six costly turnovers that Adrian put to good use proved fatal for Romulus Friday night. "We played hard, especially in the early stages," said first-year Romulus coach Jim Zoltowski, after the Eagles' third straight setback, 20-6. "But you can't give up the ball six times and expect to stop a good team like Adrian."

Those six turnovers included three fumbles, two of which Adrian turned into scores, and three pass interceptions.

Romulus hopes to snap its three-game losing streak at home Friday night when Hazel Park comes to town. The Parkers, however, have an enviable 3-1 record, and are coming off of a big victory against Ortonville.

"Offensively, they can mix it up thanks to a quarterback who has an excellent arm," said Zoltowski. "Our secondary will be tested."

Romulus fans should take note that the kickoff for the game is a half-hour earlier, and is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the junior high school.

The Eagles looked like winners early against Adrian. They scored on their first series of plays after the kickoff.

On the first play from scrimmage, at the 22, quarterback Jamal McCain saw a hole in Adrian's secondary and opted for a pass to Jamal Bailey who, after the catch, sprinted 78-yards for the TD.

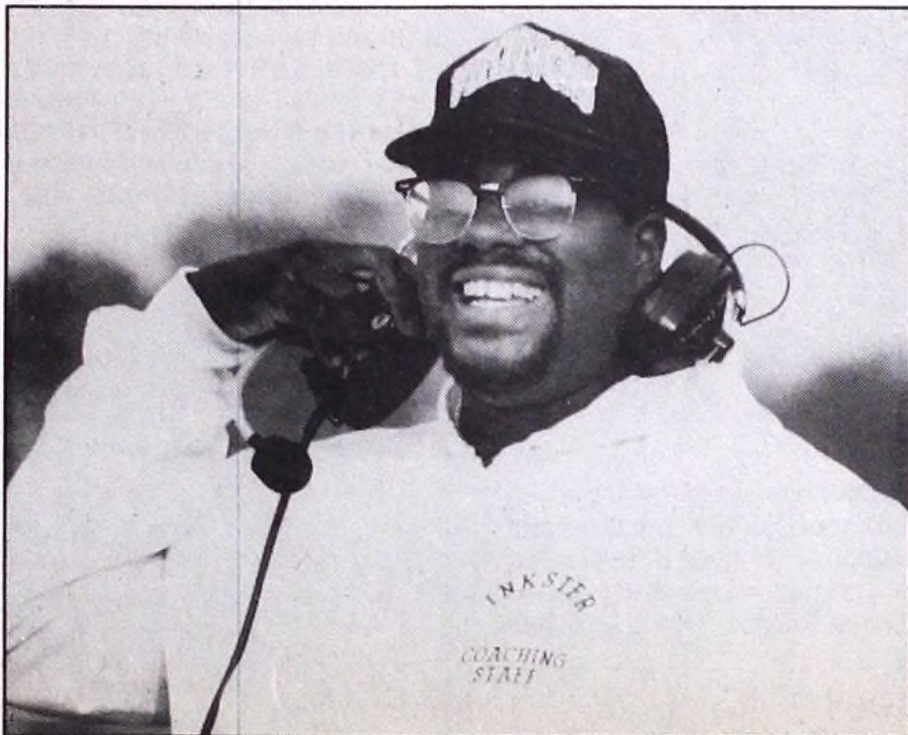

Paul Onley missed the kick for the point-after, but the Eagles had a 6-0 lead.

Romulus defense managed to contain Adrian in the next series and Romulus came back and drove to the Adrian 20 before an interception - the first of three - killed the threat.

Tigers run grid record to 4-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

After fueling up with a 14-0 victory at Lincoln Park Friday night, Belleville's title express picked up momentum and will head for Garden City where coach Bob LaPointe and the Tigers will place an untarnished 4-0 record on the line.

But, despite their best start in the past three decades, the Tigers displayed cracks in their line on offense and LaPointe says he will have to do some patch work due to injuries.

Leg injuries may sideline tackle Justin Carey and Matt Davenport - two vital links in the offense.

"They are questionable starters for the Garden City game," stressed LaPointe, who was quick to note the obvious. "We are definitely hurting up front."

The only consolation that the Tigers may have is that Garden City has failed to impress anyone in its four starts.

"They (Garden City) are struggling, but anyone who saw us against Lincoln Park could say the same about us."

They should could, coach.

A hapless Lincoln Park held Belleville scoreless the first quarter and remained in the battle most of the evening. Most prognosticators believed that Belleville would blow the Rail-splitters apart as they did their first three opponents.

Offensively, Belleville chalked up a mere 77 yards total on 38 carries.

The Tigers finally got on the board midway in the second quarter when quarterback Nate Lewis capped a 58-yard drive with senior fullback Chris Cannon's three-yard up-the-middle touchdown.

The Tigers then made it a 7-0 game with Eric Harrison's point after.

Belleville was forced to wait until the third quarter to put its insurance TD on the scoreboard, and that came with the help of LP Tiger corner Joe Manuel picked off an errant pass and returned to the LP 20-yard line to set up the

Tigers finish 3rd at Monroe Invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Belleville senior runner Brian Mockridge continued to set a fast pace in cross country.

The 17-year-old seasoned harrier won the Monroe Jefferson Invitational on Saturday, and his victory helped provide the Tigers with a third-place finish.

"This meet was a good confidence builder," said Belleville coach George DeVors. "We needed something like this."

Mockridge toured the five-kilometers in 16:44, finishing well ahead of the field. Teammate Evan Ring was fourth in 17:05 while other scores the Tigers counted included finishes by Craig Hogg, who was 16th (17:56), Kyle Medley, 19th (18:06) and Jason Newbern, 22nd (18:11).

Plymouth-Canton captured the first-place team trophy in the men's division with 45 points while Wyandotte was runnerup in the field of 13 with 47. Belleville had 62 points for its third-place.

Fordson spoiled DeVors' coaching debut in the Mega Conference Red Division as the Tractors claimed a narrow 26-29 victory over their rivals. Fordson runners finished 1-2 before Mockridge crossed the finish line.

Belleville will return to the Red Division races today at Wyandotte, and will compete in the Centerline Invitational on Saturday.

In the meantime, the Belleville women's team also finished with a third-place trophy at Jefferson as Coach Sam Vicchy's runners compiled 91 points. Again it was Canton that finished atop of a 14-team field with 44 points, followed by Woodhaven (88) and Belleville (91).

Belleville runner Tammy Pietrowski toured the field in 20:59, finishing with a silver medal. She trailed Plymouth-Canton's Becky Waltrom across the finish line. Waltrom was clocked in 20:26.

Belleville also received a 15th-place effort from Milissa Ackron (22:09), while Jamie Koren was clocked in 22:56 for a 21st-place.

Monroe slashes Wayne hopes

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Wayne has seen the Apocalypse in the awesome form of Monroe's Jeff Goins.

Goins rode all over coach Chuck Howton's title-hopeful Wayne football team, rushing for an incredible 218 yards and scoring three touchdowns in a 34-22 victory over the previously undefeated Mega Conference, Red Division, tri-leaders.

With the downfall of Wayne, there are now only two undefeated teams in the division - Monroe and Belleville, who are riding the crest of 4-0 streaks.

"I am disappointed," said Howton, after his team's first loss of the 1994 campaign. "I expected a battle, but I didn't expect it to end this way."

Wayne is not done, yet. It still has future meetings with arch-rivals Belleville and Dearborn Fordson, and the ordeal of a first loss may just strengthen the Zebras, Howton added.

Wayne will meet downriver power Woodhaven Friday night, and Woodhaven has split its first four games. Obviously the game has grave consequences for Wayne - a loss would probably kill all chances of a shot at the crown.

But the Zebras can't say that they didn't have their chances at Monroe. They scored on their first possession thanks to a sustained drive put together by quarterback Lorenzo Guess, who finished a 60-yard march with fullback Tim Galinis' two-yard TD dive.

Aaron Bates missed the extra point, leaving the Zebras with a 6-0 advantage to protect.

But Goins, who displayed signs that he is one of the best backs in the league if not the state, kept pounding away at the Wayne defenses. He eventually found a crack in the second quarter and scored from the 12. He then added two more touchdowns to put the Zebras away.

Monroe built up a 20-6 lead before Wayne realized what was going on. The visitors snapped out of their trance in the last six minutes, but it was too late to turn the tide.

Guess and tight end Richard Rashad teamed up for a pair of touchdowns. The first was a 13-yard strike, that was followed by a two-point

John Glenn, Canton survive in uncharted waters

After slow start, they share 1st

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

After launching their football season in uncharted non-conference waters, Westland John Glenn and Plymouth-Canton are back on course and steering toward title-showdowns in the Western Lakes.

Glenn, which dropped its first two games, has soared back and won two straight, including an impressive 41-0 zapping of Walled Lake Central in its latest outing.

In the meantime, Canton, after a loss to undefeated Monroe for its opener, has returned with three consecutive victories, including a 35-0 shutout of Livonia Churchill last Friday.

Now Glenn and Canton must prove to two other worthwhile opponents - Livonia Stevenson and Farmington - that they can go all the way.

And if they do, there is always three-time state champ, Harrison, waiting for the survivor.

Glenn, Livonia Stevenson and Farmington all boast perfect 2-0 records in the Western Lakes, while Canton and perennial powerhouse Farmington Hills Harrison are also undefeated in the Western Lakes Western Division.

Rocket fans will discover on Saturday whether Glenn's newly-surfaced touchdown power is for real. They face Farmington at 1 p.m. in Farmington and, Plymouth-Salem coach Tom Moshimer has called the 1994 Farmington club "the best he has seen in his 28 years of high school coaching."

The Westlanders must get past Farmington if they have any designs on the divisional title. They looked like serious contenders last week as senior quarterback Jamie Hagelthorn led the onslaught against Central.

Hagelthorn, whose receivers couldn't hang on to his passes in the first two games, made them stick as he connected on a perfect six-for-six for 117-yards, including a touchdown toss to split end Jeremy Strick.

Hagelthorn also scored his first TD of the season on a three-yarder.

But it was Brent Washington's heroics that captured most of the spotlight Friday evening. The speedy running back scored on runs of 78, five and 10-yards to turn what was predicted as a close game into a rout.

Tailback Phil Allen also contributed a touchdown.

Brian Kolb booted five of the six extra points, with Jerry Farrar getting the last one.

Glenn also received blue-chip performances out of its linebacking corp as Mike Sosnowski and junior Jeff Henry led the assault on Central's would-be ballcarriers.

In the meantime, it was another quarterback, senior signal-caller Brett Elledge who stole the spotlight in Canton's 35-0 whipping of Churchill's Chargers.

Elledge came up with touchdown runs of five, 10 and 47 in the runaway Canton victory.

Stevenson proved to Plymouth-Salem that the Spartans are serious contenders as they blanked an always-tough Plymouth-Salem, 21-0. Senior Stevenson QB Craig Martin was instrumental in Salem's demise as he carried the ball 17 times for 112 yards and a touchdown.

The Spartans also connected on all three of their PATs thanks to Steve Vezina.

Plymouth-Salem will have a "Homecoming" crowd on hand Friday night when the Rocks entertain Walled Lake Central. Coach Tom Moshimer and the Rocks hope to snap their modest two-game losing streak at Central's expense.

In the meantime, Canton takes its football show on the road. The Chiefs clash with Walled Lake Western before coming home Oct. 7 for a Homecoming game against Northville.

Bob Yauck

22-point 4th quarter saves Robichaud

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Robichaud's football team apparently doesn't want veteran coach Bob Yauck to retire or collect his Social Security. How else can you explain the Bulldogs' performance at Oak Park Friday. Living dangerously, the Dearborn Heights' gridders waited until the last quarter to erase an 8-0 deficit to win a 22-8 decision in the Suburban Athletic Conference.

"They had me sweating," said Yauck, whose Bulldogs have now strung together three straight victories after losing their opener. "We had numerous opportunities to score in the first half, but we just couldn't capitalize on them."

Robichaud didn't hesitate to cash in on Oak Park mistakes in the fourth quarter. After Brian Gipson blocked an Oak Park punt that the Bulldogs pounced on at the Redskins' one-yard line, tailback Steve Schumacher scored from there on the first play from scrimmage. Schumacher also scored the two-point conversion and that tied the score at 8-8.

Again, it was an Oak Park turnover that led to their demise. After an exchange of punts, Robichaud again capitalized on the turnover, this time a fumble that Jake Bennett recovered on the OP 37-yard line.

And again it took only one play - a handoff from quarterback Matt Alexander to tailback Omar Speight that put the Bulldogs on the scoreboard.

Speight spun off tackle and raced 37-yards and didn't spot until he was in the Oak Park end zone with the go-ahead touchdown.

The point-after failed, but now the Bulldogs had a 14-8 lead.

Robichaud struck for its final touchdown with four minutes left in the game. Alexander, looking like Colorado's Kordell Stewart, executed a perfect option play that opened the doors to a 38-yard touchdown.

Oak Park scored its only touchdown in the second quarter when quarterback Lamar Johnson combined with Ernest Hays on a 26-yard strike. Johnson also scored the two-point conversion.

Speight had one of his best days, rushing for 71 yards on 11 carries, while Brian Massey chalked up 43 yards on 11 tries.

Tied with Highland Park for the SAC lead, Robichaud now focuses on a 1-3 River Rouge team whose record is "very deceptive", according to Yauck.

"They always play tough defense," Yauck added.

Wayne suffers 1st swim setback

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Their numbers may be down because of a pay-to-participate policy, but the Wayne Memorial swim team's spirits are high.

That's the word from coach Greg Cooper, who began his 14th season as in coaching, his second as the Zebras' mentor last week.

"We have a team that is enthusiastic and energetic," said Cooper, "despite the fact that our numbers have dwindled because of the pay-to-participate policy. But we don't have any seniors on this team, so all of these swimmers will be back next year."

"We have a team that is enthusiastic and energetic. Despite the fact that our numbers have dwindled because of the pay-to-participate policy. But we don't have any seniors on this team..."

Greg Cooper

Athletes who participate in competitive sports in the Wayne-Westland school district are asked to pay a fee to defray the costs of the programs. The financially-strapped school district does not have the funds to finance varsity sports this year.

Wayne launched the season with an impressive 130-55 victory over Redford Thurston and the Zebras also dunked Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 141-45. But Allen Park, a team favored to win the Mega Conference White Division title, came up with a 63-39 victory over Wayne, handing the Zebras their first loss of the year.

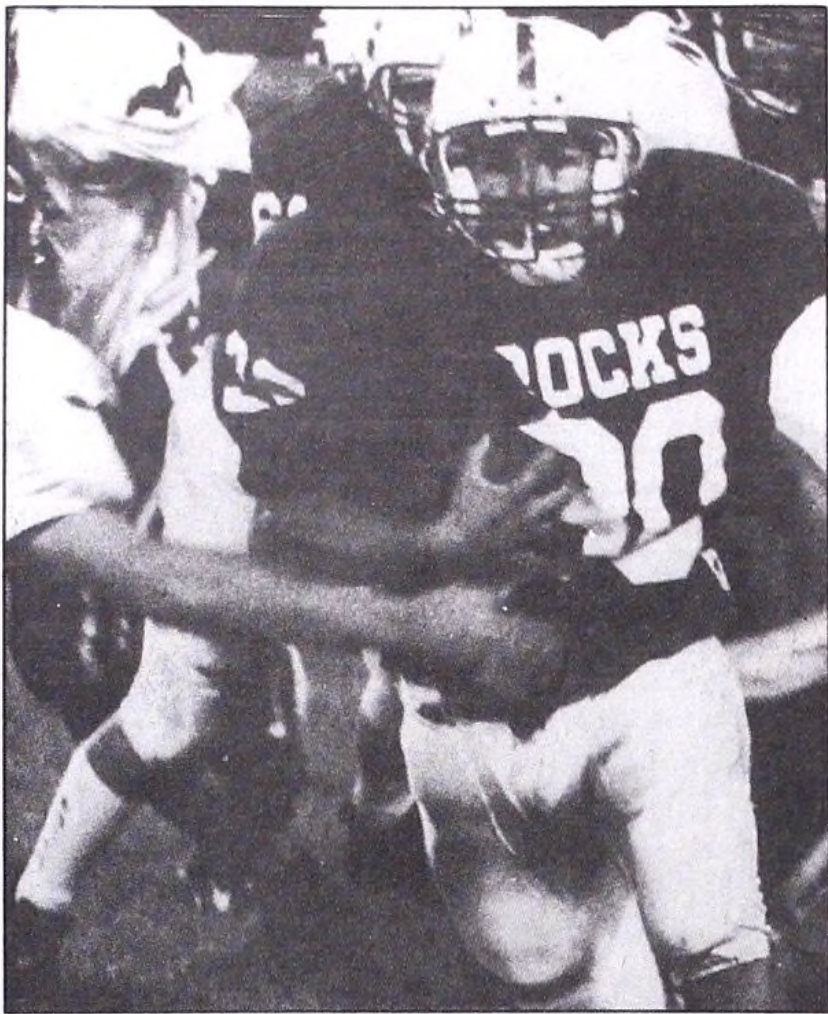

"Allen Park has an excellent team," said Cooper, a former All-Area swimmer from Belleville High. "We will have to work hard to catch them."

Allen Park shut the Zebras out in the relay events, however, Wayne collected three first places thanks to the performances of diver Jennifer Marchand and individual efforts by Cristi Brumlow and Katie Pardee.

Marchand was awarded 136.80 points for her winning performance on the diving boards. Brumlow turned in a 1:12.43 to win the 100-yard backstroke events while Pardee touched in first for the 100-yard breaststroke.

Wayne returned to the pool Tuesday night to host natural rival, Westland John Glenn.

Plymouth-Salem fullback Kevin Grim finds a wall of defenders and no hole in this play. and TD, you can bet it would have been a different kind of game," Zoltowski said.

Adrian came back and drove the length of the field with junior quarterback Mark Bruggeman scoring the first of his two on a 13-yard option. Adrian took the lead for good when they made good on the conversion.

The Maples then exploded for two third quarter touchdowns to salt the victory away.

Romulus has never beaten its former South Central Conference rival, and with the Eagles scheduled to compete in the Mega Conference a year from now, they won't have an opportunity to do so in the near future.

Free safety Skip Luster turned in an excellent game for the Eagles as he picked off a pass in the second quarter and raced 42-yards with the ball, setting up a TD threat.

score. Two plays later, Lewis and Rodney Komaromi combined on a five-yard strike.

Harrison again kicked the extra point.

Lincoln Park managed to keep Belleville off the scoreboard the rest of the way.

Although the Tiger ballcarriers didn't have anything to write home about offensively, defensively, Brian Shephard stood out thanks to six tackles and two sacks of the quarterback. The 6-1, 215-pound senior tackle seemed to be in on all of the tackles. Cannon also had an excellent night on defense.

pass conversion that featured Guess and Scott Wetmore.

With the game decided, Guess also connected on a 12-yard touchdown pass, again to Rashad. Ken Riley scored the two-point conversion.

Wayne's senior running back Steve Stevenson had his problems against a merciless Monroe defense. He was held to 58 yards on eight carries. Corey McClelland added 35 yards.

"We must bounce back against Woodhaven," warned Howton. "We just can't afford a letdown like the one at Monroe."

Wheatley

The Wolverine took over and with sophomore tailback Tshimanga Biakabutuka (bet his name will never be put in the headline) carrying the brunt of the assault, scored on a drive that went 77-yards, with Mr. B scoring from the three.

The Wolverines opted for the two-point conversion, but a motion penalty moved them five-yards back. Collins' pass was picked off and the two teams separated at the half with Colorado enjoying a 14-9 lead.

Wheatley started the second half and he scored his first TD of his senior campaign with 10:43 on the clock in the third period to give the Wolverines a 15-14 lead. Mercury Hayes stepped into the end zone with the two point conversion and the hosts enjoyed a 17-14 lead.

They made it 20-14 with Hamilton's second field goal. However, the Wolverines had a fourth-down and one situation and prognosticators believed that Moellar should have "gone for it."

A Collins pass to Toomer in the third period accounted for a 35-yard touchdown and what proved to be the Wolverines' final score of the game.

Wheatley finished the game with 50 yards on 17 carries and one TD.

But his return gave Michigan another weapon in their arsenal, according to Wheatley's former coach at Robichaud, Bob Yauck.

"With a healthy Wheatley in the lineup, Michigan will be able to do a lot of things," said Yauck. "I don't see them losing many more, if any more games this season."

CHANGING

JOHN GLENN GRADUATE RETURNS
HOME TO STAR IN FIDDLER PRODUCTION

He's back.

The very talented John Glenn graduate Daniel Cooney is now starring in Fiddler On The Roof at the Fisher Theatre through Oct. 2.

Cooney just completed a phenomenal tour with the Evita production as the lead character Che. He said he is ready to work with his new Fiddler family.

"When we toured with Evita we hit big cities like Chicago, San Francisco and, of course, Detroit," Cooney said. "I had about three months off between Evita and Fiddler.

"During that time I went to Arizona and did Pirates of Penzance. I helped direct, cast and put the whole thing together. I had a great time."

Cooney portrays Perchik who is a student, a revolutionary in Fiddler. He said the opportunity for the role came about due to the producers being the same as Evita.

"When I heard they were putting it up, I asked for an audition," Cooney said. "I flew to New York while I was still doing Che and just sang for them.

"Perchik is a great little role. It only has one song so I'm not as vocally taxed. It's in the same emotional range, however, like Che. Whereas this guy is a Jewish revolutionary in Russia, Che was a revolutionary in Cuba."

Born and raised in Westland, Cooney has performed in many productions including Les Miserables, Hair, West Side Story and Jesus Christ Superstar. And although he has made it as a star on stage, Cooney said from time to time he still gets a little nervous performing in front of an audience.

"I would say opening night I was very excited with this show," Cooney said. "With Theodore Bikel having the lead, however, it takes a little pressure off so I'm not as nervous."

Of all the performances Cooney has performed in, he said the most challenging role was Che.

"Che was probably the hardest role I've had," Cooney said. "The actual role itself I had a lot of fun doing, but the hard part came in with trying to sustain the energy because it was so demanding on your vocal chords.

"With Evita after each performance I went home and went to bed. With Fiddler, it is less demanding so I can go out after the performance and see some friends."

After graduating from John Glenn High School, Cooney worked with the Dearborn Players Guild where he performed in a variety of shows. He later moved to Florida where he had the opportunity to act in a dinner-theatre atmosphere.

"It was musical theater mainly," Cooney said. "It was a lot of fun. That all kind of crashed and burned after 1 1/2 years, and I came crawling home.

"From that experience I got offered another acting job in New Hampshire. I had no money at the time, I was broke and working in construction."

Cooney said his mother flew him out to New Hampshire to find out about an acting job opportunity.

"From then on I was very fortunate," Cooney said. "I moved to New York and kept working in non-equity dinner theaters and cabaret theaters. New York is where I got cast in Les Miserables."

Cooney said he still depends on the support of his family and friends to continue the upbeat momentum.

"I have an excellent acting teacher, Jim Bonney, who I have been studying with for two years," Cooney said. "He really put me on the right track. I'm actually thinking about auditioning for either Yale Drama School or Juilliard.

"I'm considering taking some time off and studying. My family has also been very supportive from the day I moved to New York when I was 18 years old."

Cooney said his younger brother gave Cooney his car so he would have transportation to New York when he was 18.

"I didn't have any money, and he gave me his Ford Fiesta," Cooney said. "I drove it out there. My family has been there 180 percent. My father, who wasn't as supportive in the past about me being an actor, is now 180 percent for me.

"I'm just thrilled to be back in my home town so I can see my family and friends."

What's in store in the future for this vivacious performer?

"Actually I just auditioned for Kiss of the Spider Woman right before I left for the tour," Cooney said. "They called me up and asked if I would understudy a role, and I had to turn it down because I was doing this. I would never leave a role to understudy.

"But I did tell them if the tour continues or a spot opens up on the Broadway company after I have done my time here, I would take it."

Cooney said no matter how many national tour productions he performs in, he will always remember the

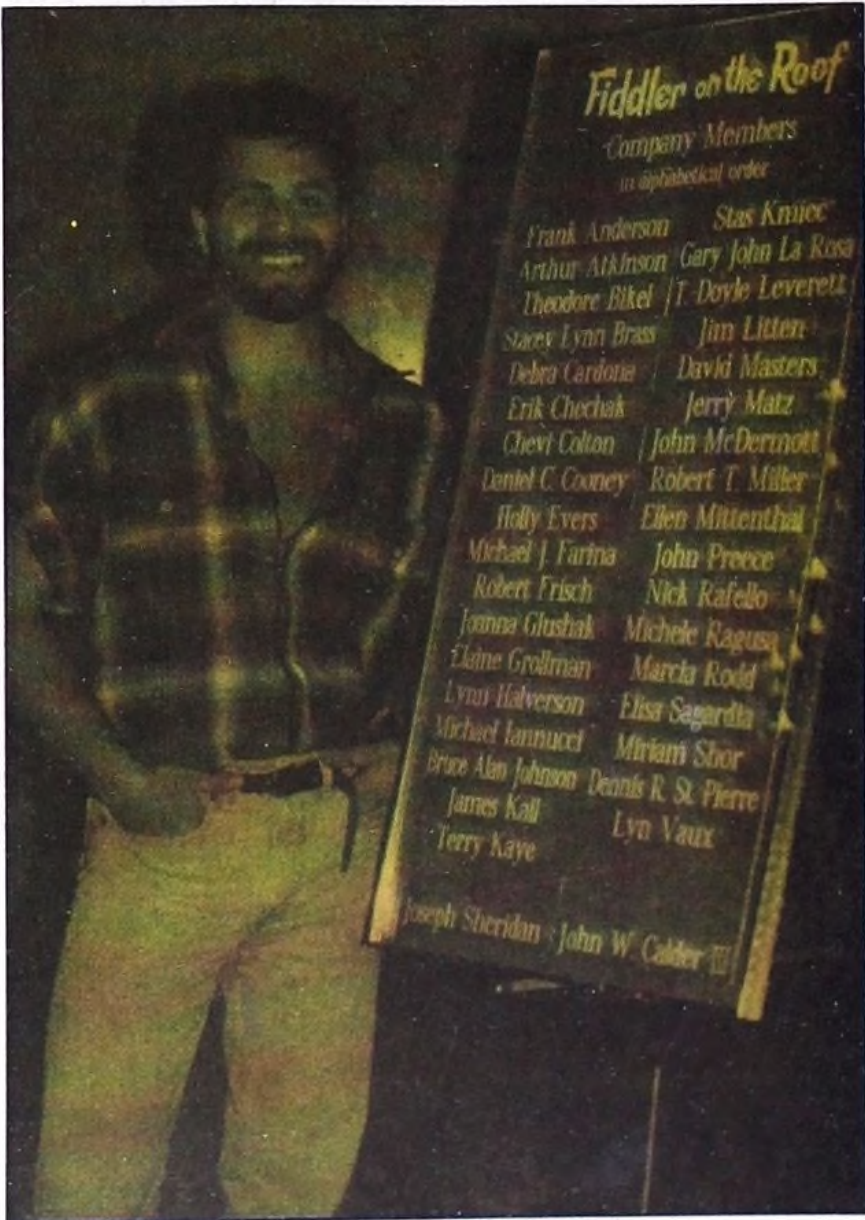

"I REMEMBER SITTING IN THE
FISHER THEATRE WHEN I WAS
15 YEARS OLD WATCHING
PIRATES OF PENZANCE. I WAS THINKING 'WOW, THIS IS FANTASTIC'. I NEVER THOUGHT I WOULD BE ON THE SAME STAGE."

Daniel Cooney

Daniel Cooney said he was starring as Che in Evita when the opportunity arrived for an interview as Perchik in Fiddler On The Roof. Cooney said he enjoys traveling to different states and meeting new friends. He intends to perfect his acting style by enrolling in either Yale Drama School or Juilliard. The John Glenn graduate's parents have already been to the performance at the Fisher Theater. He said his family offers an added support system when he returns to his home town. Cooney will be touring the U.S. with his new Fiddler family after he leaves the Detroit area.

first time he sat in the Fisher Theatre and was dazzled as a child by the many professional actors.

"I remember sitting in the Fisher Theatre when I was 15 years old watching Pirates of Penzance," Cooney said. "I was thinking 'Wow, this is fantastic.' I never thought I would be on that same stage."

Tickets are now on sale for Fiddler at the Fisher Theatre Box Office and all TicketMaster outlets. For more information call 313- 872-1000.

Cemetery is burial site for pioneer family

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

Land which was once part of Ganong family farm is now the final resting place for members of the pioneer families and many other early western Wayne County residents.

Prior to the turn of the century, the cemetery, located on Tobine (now Henry Ruff Road), was set aside by William Ganong as "a final resting place for friends and loved ones."

Ganong dedicated the cemetery site as "a mark of respect and a token of love" for those who were to come after him.

First a one-acre site, the cemetery was expanded to two acres, south of Michigan Avenue adjacent to the former Eloise property which is owned by Wayne County.

The Ganong family, which originated in Lyons, France, were French Huguenots who were said to be connected to the mother of Queen Elizabeth of England.

On March 13, 1897, a cemetery association was organized with William Ganong's children, Joshua, Charles, Elizabeth, Rachel and Esther, listed as controlling officers. In May of the same year, the association voted to build a barbed wire fence on the south and west sides of the cemetery, and the following year, a trip of land on the west side of the cemetery was set aside as a potter's field.

Fifty evergreens were purchased and planted, and a sign indicating the name of the cemetery was placed over a front gate in 1899.

Lot owners include Tinkhams, Sims, Butlers, Edmonds, Randalls, Hubbards and Orrs, all of which were well-known families in the early days of Wayne and Nankin Township.

In the past few years, interest in the cemetery has been generated due to preliminary proposals to develop the adjacent land for a combination of multi-family residences and light to medium manufacturing uses. Provisions to pre-

Eight years ago, the cemetery was found to have suffered neglect and major acts of vandalism, but following an Associated Newspaper article describing the litter and desecrated, a community effort was made to restore the cemetery.

The project, sparked by Joseph Benyo of Westland and aided by community groups and the Michigan Cemetery Association, cleaned and restored the cemetery. A recent visit to the site found it to be in good order.

Almanac predicts cold, snowy winter weather

It looks as if we'll have a white Christmas plus several other "white" days in the months ahead.

If you rely on the predictions of 203-year-old The Old Farmer's Almanac, it would be wise to check the furnace in your home and be sure your snowblower is in tip-top form. Also, be sure your supply of warm jackets, boots, hats and scarves is ample for this winter.

The Old Farmer's Almanac is predicting near record amounts of snow for the upper Great Plains, New York, New England, much of the Appalachians and the Great Lakes area.

Precipitation totals for the winter will be well above normal for much of the country,

Hospital organizes 'Bids' benefit for children

By MARGO DEWEY
Deputy News Editor

A fund-raising benefit geared to help children stay healthy is approaching, and hospital organizers would like the assistance of the western Wayne County communities to make the event a success.

The Annapolis Hospital "Bids for Kids II" extravaganza is scheduled for 6 p.m. Oct. 14 at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza in Romulus. Activities will include dinner and an auction of items and services donated by local merchants and professionals.

"Last year we raised $151,000, and it did a lot of good for kids in the community," said Tom Daily, chairman of Bids for Kids II. "This year we're eager to do even better so we're aiming for $200,000."

Funds from the 1993 event paid for community immunization and prenatal programs. Three immunization clinics recently took place in conjunction with the Wayne-Westland School District, Annapolis Hospital, Annapolis Hospital Westland Center and the Oakwood Family Medical Center-Westland, offering shots free of charge to students.

Other projects funded by the gala included transportation for prenatal care patients, and an early childhood well-ness project.

This year, funds gathered from the Bids for Kids II project are targeted for prevention and treatment of injuries incurred by children.

According to Carla O'Malley, senior vice president and chief operating officer at Annapolis Hospital, unintentional injuries are the leading killer of children. Most of the injuries among children one to 14 years old are caused by traffic accidents, which accounts for 3,200 deaths in children, followed closely by drowning, fires, poison, firearms and falls.

"Children are a very important part of the community, and we are pleased to be able to hold this event to provide such needed services," said Ted Martin, chairman of the Annapolis Board of Trustees.

Prevention efforts will focus on education. Annapolis Hospital officials plan to achieve this by expanding the Safety Day program, developing a safety coloring book and scheduling health fairs.

Classes in first aid, babysitting and cardiopulmonary resuscitation will be offered to children. Annapolis also will team up with local schools to develop helmet guidelines for children on bikes and in-line skates. This community-wide campaign will include the distribution of bike helmets.

Children are a very important part of the community, and we are pleased to be able to hold this event...

- Ted Martin

The goals of the helmet program will include:

- To increase parent awareness with regards to both the magnitude of bicycle and in-line skating-related head trauma and protection afforded by helmets via pamphlets and posters located in physician offices by Annapolis Hospital.
- To decrease the costs of ANSI or SNELL approved helmets through the arrangements of a group discount with bike and in-line skate dealerships, in conjunction with an additional helmet coupon provided by Annapolis Hospital.
- To provide incentives to children for wearing their helmets during bike-riding and/or in-line skating by supplying schools and youth organizations with coupons for fast food, event tickets to be rewards for wearing helmets.

When accidents do occur, Annapolis wants to be ready with the best pediatric care possible. Therefore, some of the money raised by Bids for Kids II will provide funds to staff a pediatric "after hours"

Chamber of Commerce and asked for the members for their assistance with the gala event.

"This was a very successful event last year," Bruhn said. "The hospital's success really depends on the help and support of the community. We would like to influence the health status of the community. We have a lot of dedicated community supporters who could help us with this goal."

Martin described the various ways the business group could assist with Bids for Kids II.

"We need corporate sponsorships," Martin said. "We are looking for those key people who can help. We need auction items for both the live and silent auctions. We need individuals to work on the promotional aspect to bring people to the event through the sale of tickets.

"And, we need assistance with letting the public know what we are doing."

Anyone interested in lending a helping hand to assist with Bids for Kids II can contact Annapolis Hospital at 467-4175 and ask for Judy.

The Annapolis Foundation Board consists of volunteer members of the community, medical staff and hospital administration. Together, they work to cultivate and solicit sources of philanthropic funds.

but well below normal from the central Great Plains to the Gulf of Mexico, according to the almanac. This information could be a help for Michigan residents when they plan their winter get-away trips.

"The period from November through March will see great variability in temperature, with November and March considerably colder than normal," is the almanac prediction for the Great Lakes area. "Precipitation and snowfall totals will be well above normal in the east but near normal in the west. The latter half of December will also be cold and snowy following a mild first half."

The ominous prediction for December begins with mild weather, followed by snow, rain and cold, then a few sprinkles turning to cold. A cold wave and snow are predicted for Dec. 16 to 18, followed by severe cold and snow from Dec. 19 to 21 and heavy snow on Dec. 26. More snow is predicted from Dec. 27 to 31.

Weather forecasts are determined by the use of a "secret" formula devised by the founder of The Old Farmer's Almanac in 1792 and also by the most scientific calculations based on solar activity, according to its publishers, who state, "We believe nothing in the universe occurs haphazardly; there is a cause-and-effect pattern to all phenomena, including weather."

Its predictions have proved to be 80 percent accurate - a record that does not seem to be in danger of challenge by local television weather forecasters.

If reading about snow and cold proves to be too dreary, readers can turn from the weather section to other features.

County commissioner candidate has family support

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Deputy News Editor

If elected to serve as Wayne County commissioner for the 11th District, longtime Wayne resident Ken Warfield said he would like the opportunity to "provide the highest level of life safety, property protection and quality of life possible, and to make sure tax dollars are used to their fullest measure."

Warfield, a Democrat, is currently the mayor of Wayne. He credits his previous experience as fire chief with the Wayne Fire Department and presence on the City Council as the foundation for the county commissioner position. He said he is working with many supporters to get his "quality of life" message out to the public.

"I'm working with people all over the district," Warfield said. "We're planning a fund raiser at Fellows Creek. It has been a lot of hard work, but I'm enjoying all of it."

Warfield said his whole family including his wife, Goldie, have joined forces to make his campaign drive a success.

"Goldie and my daughter, Teri, are involved with the mailings," Warfield said. "My daughter in Washington, Debbie, is giving me economic advice. My sons (Bob, Mark and Don) are helping me with campaign signs."

Warfield said he has devoted more than 100 hours a week to campaigning, and so far he hasn't run into any major obstacles.

"The fund raising part is difficult," Warfield said. "Some supporters don't have unlimited funds. They can support you with as much as they can. The volunteer hours are tremendous. I'm just very appreciative of all the support I have been getting."

Some campaigns can take twists and turns as the election draws near, however, Warfield said he hasn't faced any surprises just yet.

"I think having been in the public eye for more than 30 years, I've seen quite a bit, so I haven't been surprised just yet with this campaign," Warfield said.

Besides his two daughters and three sons, Warfield has eight grandchildren. He has lived in Wayne for more than 33 years and in Wayne County for more than 53 years.

Rivers' campaign flows

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
News Editor

"Run as fast as you can, check off as many things to do as possible at the end of each day, and hope that there aren't too many items left over," is the game plan of the Democratic candidate for the 13th Congressional District.

Lynn Rivers, who is seeking the Congressional seat soon to be vacated by long-time Congressman William Ford, is working her campaign around her duties as representative of the state House of Representatives 53rd District.

"The last couple of weeks haven't been too bad, because we haven't had any long sessions," said Rivers in a phone interview on Tuesday on her way from Lansing to a political gathering in Livonia.

A typical day for Rivers when the House is not in session begins at 8:30 a.m. when she makes phone calls and reads briefing materials and letters from her constituents.

"After taking care of my mail, I talk to my office in Lansing and fax materials that are needed," Rivers said. "During the early part of the day, I visit with different groups of people - local officials, union groups, etc. I also schedule some talks over coffee."

"At some point, I try to grab something to eat. Usually, there is some event to attend in the evening, but, if not, I write thank-you notes," the Democratic candidate said.

"The adrenaline keep me going. The busy schedule just seems to feed on itself, and it's easy to keep going, but a break is bad. It's hard to build up the momentum again," Rivers said. "When the House is in session, all of the same things go on, but in a more compressed schedule."

"During the campaign I'm under a lot of pressure to not say or do something that will be interpreted as offensive. As the campaign continues, the pressure is cranked up. I'm being told, 'your opponent said this' and 'your opponent said that,'" Rivers said.

Rivers' husband, Joe, and two daughters, 15 and 19, are all supportive of her political goals, she said.

"My husband and I have a mutually supportive marriage. We were 17 and 18 when we married and we have worked together through the years," Rivers said. "I usually get home around 9 p.m. and we talk about what has happened during the day. Sometimes, he cooks dinner on the grill and at other times, my older daughter fixes dinner for us."

Editor's note: This is part of a continuing series about candidates waging their campaigns for office. All of the local candidates will be featured prior to the Nov. 8 general election.

Sometimes the smallest feet must travel the longest distance.

Ten years ago, the road to a normal childhood would have been too long for this baby to survive. Your donations to the United Way have supported the kind of medical research in prenatal care that gives premature babies like this the chance to survive.

The United Way supports some 140 agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties that help the homeless, the illiterate, the unemployed and many more. And because nearly 90 cents of every dollar you contribute goes directly to those in need, you can be sure your donation will make a difference. So please give to the United Way. And help shorten the distance the littlest feet must travel.

SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT TO MICHIGAN COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

Vehicle repair can be hassle free

A pair of pliers, a screwdriver and a wrench once could handle most minor automotive repairs, but the complexity of today's vehicles can be confusing to even the most mechanically inclined consumer.

So it comes as little surprise that automotive repair ranks near the top of the list of consumer complaints in surveys by groups like the Better Business Bureau, or the National Association of Attorneys General.

But consumers don't have to be wary when their automobiles need attention. They simply should be aware, according to Goodyear, which operates more than 900 automotive service centers nationwide. Goodyear suggests a consumer checklist when searching for hassle-free repair of your vehicle.

- Shop in your own locality when possible, and get to know the manager and the automotive technician who works on your vehicle regularly.

- Call the Better Business Bureau to see if the location you are considering has any unresolved complaints on record.

- Check for credentials and industry affiliations (ASE, Automotive Service Association, etc.). ASE certified technicians are required to successfully complete exacting tasks that qualify them to diagnose and work on sophisticated vehicles.

- Before you go in, call and make an appointment.

Car care tips offered for auto vacations

Each year, more than 100 million Americans drive approximately 155 billion miles on their vacation trips. That many miles can put a lot of wear on a car, and there's nothing like car trouble to put the brakes on a family excursion.

Experts from the Chevrolet Lumina "Discover America Tour" mobile team created a quick automobile check for all automobile travelers heading out to discover sights unknown.

Start at the Front

1) Check the headlights and turn signals. Do they function properly?

2) Next, take a look under the hood. Check fluid levels and oil.

3) What about those belts? To check their tension, press your thumb down on the middle of each belt. It shouldn't give more than half an inch. Look for fraying and cracking, too.

4) The battery should be free of corrosion. Clean the terminals if necessary.

5) Check the windshield wipers. If you run into heavy rain or snow, will the wipers work in these conditions?

6) Are all tires properly inflated and in good condition?

7) Check the brakes by pushing the pedal down. If it goes more than halfway to the floor, that's too far. The pedal should feel like it's hitting something hard. If it feels spongy, you might have air in your brake lines. If you find anything suspicious, have your vehicle checked by an expert.

8) Make sure you take along proper registration, proof of insurance and an up-to-date road atlas or map.

9) Make sure the air conditioner (if you have one) and safety belts are working properly.

Rear of the Car

10) Make sure the trunk of your car is equipped with a spare tire and tire jack.

11) It's also a good idea to keep a first aid kit, a large blanket and a flashlight in the trunk so you're prepared.

12) Check the spare tire to make sure it has enough tread and is fully inflated.

Frequent inspection of windshield wiper blades can prevent hazards

Few things are more annoying to a motorist than to drive into a rainstorm and suddenly discover that your windshield wipers don't work properly.

According to the American Optometric Association, 90 percent of driving decisions made while behind the wheel are based on vision. Without properly functioning windshield wipers, vision can be seriously impaired, and driving safely becomes a critical concern. Keeping your windshield wipers in good condition can prevent a life-and-death situation on the road.

What constitutes good wiper maintenance? Wiper blades should be replaced every six months, according to design engineers at TRICO Corp. of Buffalo. TRICO is a leading manufacturer of windshield wipers and replacements, and TRICO blades are original equipment on seven out of 10 American cars.

Windshield wipers are made from rubber, the engineers explain. Even the best designed, best quality wiper blades have limited useful life span, because rubber simply doesn't hold up well in the face of the natural and man-made elements that come against it.

Rubber provides the most flexible and resilient surface for wiping across glass, but unfortunately, it also has a natural tendency to dry out and rot. This tendency grows worse in extreme temperatures. Heat causes rubber to warp. Cold makes it brittle and makes it crack. Sunlight, ozone, pollution and chemicals thrown up from the road surface further contribute to the natural deterioration.

The best solution is regular wiper maintenance. Wipers should be visually inspected at regular intervals. Periodic cleaning of dirt, dust and grime from the windshield surface and wiping the rubber blade with a soft, clean cloth can prolong blade life.

For best results, blades should be replaced every six months or as soon as any problem with streaking occurs.

Some things to look for when inspecting blades include:

- Cracked rubber, with splits or slashes, usually caused by physical damage or "ozone attack," which refers to the effects of the sun's ultraviolet rays on rubber.

- Contaminated rubber, appearing as pits, scars or discoloration, usually the result of chemicals from the road surface being tossed against the windshield and adhering to the rubber surface.

- Torn rubber, where the rubber refill has pulled away from the superstructure and may end up slipping or slapping against the glass with each pass, rather than providing a clean wipe.

- Streaking on the windshield, caused by dry, cracked rubber or from tree sap, road tar or other foreign substances adhering to the rubber surface or from ice and snow clogging the blades.

- Improperly installed refills can leave loose clips to scratch against the windshield.

Besides the rubber element, other factors can also contribute to wiper failure. The metal superstructure is also susceptible to physical damage, especially from ice scrapers, car wash equipment or even vandalism.

Bending or loss of arm tension can interfere with the wiper's proper contact against the glass. You can test arm tension by gently lifting the wiper away from the windshield.

If your wipers do not produce a clear view on every wipe, you may be seriously endangering your safety and that of those around you. Good regular maintenance and frequent replacement of damaged blades can be one of the easiest and most vital steps to safer driving.

Vehicle suspension tuning restores the fun of driving, provides stability

Almost every time you read an article about new automobiles it begins with "Today's cars...ride better, corner flatter, are more nimble and give drivers better feedback from their high-tech suspensions."

That's great news if you own one of today's cars that just rolled off the line. Many of us, however, own one of today's cars that has already been around the world twice. Or one of yesterday's cars—the ones that are 5 to 7 years old that no longer ride better or corner flatter.

And, the only feedback you get is the free play in the steering wheel.

Two other situations that have little to do with a vehicle's age or mileage can also wreak havoc on your car's steering and stability—driving style and road conditions.

If you are a "spirited" driver, you have already discovered that putting a modern automobile through a tight corner on a narrow, twisting highway is a lot safer and easier than in the "good old days" of fire breathing, we-only-go-straight-ahead motoring.

The keys to this are today's advanced chassis and suspension systems. They provide more precise steering, better handling and a good ride, while also saving weight and improving the vehicle's fuel economy.

Late model cars are mostly front wheel drive, often use rack and pinion steering, independent suspension on all four wheels and rely on tubular or stamped steel control arms, steel stabilizer bars, and a wide range of metal and flexible bushings to keep the wheels on the road and pointed where you want them pointed.

But along with the improved handling and lighter weight, comes a tradeoff—today's suspensions need just a bit more tender loving car than yesterday's heavy suspensions did.

Push today's light suspensions—or yesterday's heavy ones too—over rough, torn-up roadway filled with potholes, add heavy use of salt on our highways in the winter on many highways, and your car's steering and suspension, new or old, can act as if they forgot to wake up when you started the car.

But hold on—there is good news.

"Many of the technological advancements found on today's cars are available to upgrade yesterday's cars and make them handle better than new," said Mike Jones, Chassis specialist for Perfect Circle, a leading supplier of steering, chassis, suspension and driveline components. "Or to bring a well-travelled late model car's handling and steering back up to snuff. Most of the steering and suspension upgrades currently available are best installed by a professional mechanic or the experienced do-it-yourselfer. Your mechanic can handle them with ease for a lot less than an arm and a leg."

Lots of parts are available for domestic and imports alike that feature advanced design and newly developed materials, Jones noted.

"They often outperform the original components or certainly restore the vehicle to its original steering and handling," Jones said.

Putting New Spring In The Old Car

If your car feels like it's sitting on the ground when it used to ride tall in the saddle, and the bumper drags when you load the trunk, or the car bottoms out on every bump, it's time to look at the springs.

The coil spring is the only component on the car that has been working all the time since the car was new. Coil springs sag overtime, although this usually goes unnoticed. Replacement of the springs is relatively inexpensive, and doing so will restore the vehicle to the proper ride height, add stability and control, and improve the ride.

"When considering new coil springs you have options: install 'original equipment' type springs, install heavy duty springs or install variable rate springs," Jones said. "Variable rate type springs such as Perfect Circle's Payload springs are a great compromise. They combine the smooth ride associated with standard springs with the extra weight capacity of heavy duty springs."

"Variable rate type springs are designed with graduated spacing between the coils. This design allows the load capacity of the spring to increase as the spring is compressed."

The beauty of the springs is that when the vehicle is lightly loaded they ride like the original springs, according to Jones.

"But, when you load the vehicle heavily, they compensate and maintain close to normal right height and a good ride too," Jones said.
